

HOUSE RECIPROCITY BILL NOW CERTAIN OF BEING PASSED

SENATE WILL ACT ON PACT URGED BY PRESIDENT TAFT TOMORROW.

PREDICTIONS TODAY

Are That Measure Will Be Put Through Senate By Various Majorities, Friends and Foes of Bill Agreeing It Will Be Passed.

Washington, July 21.—(By United Press.)—Certain as they can be of anything that has not happened, friends and foes of the reciprocity bill today predicted the passage of the pact tomorrow in the form it came from the House.

Predict Vote.
The vote, according to the various views today, was predicted as follows by Chairman Penrose, republican, from Pennsylvania, of the Finance committee, 2 to 1 in favor; Senator Stone, democrat of Missouri, 55 to 41; Senator Irwin, republican of Kansas, 58 to 33; Senator McComb, republican from North Dakota, 210 1.

Comes Tomorrow.
Washington, July 21.—(By United Press.)—Chairman Penrose promised President Taft to lay the reciprocity bill with the approval of Congress on the President's table by two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Attacks Press.
Senator La Follette made his closing speech on the reciprocity bill today and declared the press had failed in its duty to the public regarding reciprocity, that the newspapers supported reciprocity because they "have direct money interests."

Amendment Killed.
The Townsend amendment to the reciprocity bill providing for the international improvement of the St. Lawrence river from the Great Lakes to the ocean, was defeated today by a large vote.

Lorimer Probe.
The office of the secretary of state of New York was brought into the Lorimer investigation today when Secretary Wiche of the Lumber company, testified that a thousand dollars had been sent to him for a copy of the list of contributors to the Taft campaign fund, on his in Albany. The witness said he informed the list consisted of 128 names.

Shoe Was Savings Bank of Italian
Joe Scheaba, Steel Worker Arraigned For Drunkenness, Had Roll of Bills in Footwear.

After a fine of $2 and costs or three days in jail had been fixed by the court and the officers were ready to take him to jail, Joe Scheaba, an Italian steel worker, who was arraigned today for drunkenness, declared that jail life did not appeal to him. Removing one of his shoes, he took out a roll of bills amounting to about thirty dollars and paid the fine.

New Postal Clerk Has Been Appointed
John P. McCue, Night Clerk, To Be Added To Day Force and Joseph Boylen Appointed Night Clerk.

With an increase of fifty per cent in the business done in the local post office in the past few years, Postmaster C. L. Valentine was authorized a short time ago by the postoffice department to add another postal clerk to the day force working at the office. John P. McCue, who for the past three years has held the position as night clerk will go on the new day job. Compulsive examinations were held to select a clerk for the night work and of the number who took the examination, Joseph Boylen was appointed. He will commence work on Monday night.

ATTORNEY FORMERLY EMPLOYED BY SUGAR TRUST TESTIFIED

Attorney Parson, Before Investigating Committee, Says Wrong, Such As Watering Stock, Right Themselves.

New York, July 21.—(By Associated Press.)—My theory is, and it is supported by the greatest economic writers, that all such wrongs right themselves, was the answer of former Attorney Parsons of the American Sugar Refining company, to the investigators, today, when asked "How the government could prevent the extravagance of the corporation as exhibited in the past?"

Gave Contribution.
New York, July 21.—That the sugar trust contributed $10,000 to the republican campaign fund in 1902 because it desired Benjamin Harrison elected president over Grover Cleveland, was the statement made on the stand before the Hardwick committee by John E. Parsons, former chief counsel of the trust. Until corporation contributions were prohibited by law, Parsons said the sugar trust was constantly importuned for money from both political parties.

LA CROSSE FARMERS ABANDON CHASE FOR THE MISSING NEGRO

It Is Believed Today That Halfbreed Who Shot Young La Crosse Girl Has Committed Suicide.

La Crosse, July 21.—(By United Press.)—Believing that Edgar Robinson, half negro and half Indian farm hand, who shot Sylvia Price, a 14 year old farmer's daughter when she spurned his affections, is dead, hundreds of farmers who had scoured the surrounding country gave up the chase today. Robinson, it was known, attempted suicide, and it is believed his body lies in some obscure place in the heavy marshes common to this section.

$200,000 INCREASE IN TAX ASSESSMENTS
Estimated Totals From Figures Not Yet Completed Show Gain of About Two Hundred Thousand Over Last Year.

Figures in the tax assessment roll for the city of Janesville have not yet been completed, although the board of review has finished its work. City Clerk R. M. Cunningham is at present at work on the assessor's books, balancing them, and within a day or so, it is expected, the figures will be at hand. Janesville's assessment last year was over ten million and a half dollars and the figures this year, it is estimated, will be about two hundred thousand over last year's total. This is over a million in excess of that of Beloit, which this year totaled $9,470,000.

VETERANS GATHER ON FAMOUS BATTLEFIELD

SURVIVORS OF BATTLE OF BULL RUN HELD REUNION AT MANASSAS TODAY

TAFT GAVE ADDRESS

President One of A Number of Prominent Men Who Spoke At Exercises This Afternoon—Battle Ground Visited This Morning.

Manassas, Va., July 21.—An army of people took possession of Bull Run today. Thousands of men wearing blue and the Gray filled the old town. On the battlefield of Bull Run near by was to be seen the pomp of war, but the implements of death and destruction were not there for the purpose that took them there fifty years ago. Nevertheless, they were reminders of those bitter days when thousands of the youth of the North and the South gave up their lives in the great battle of the civil war.

City Was Decorated.
Manassas was beautifully and profusely decorated in honor of the veterans and of President Taft and other notables who came to participate in the semi-centennial celebration. Many of the visitors reached town yesterday, while the morning trains from Washington, Richmond and the West added thousands to the invading host.

Gather At Battlefield.
At daybreak the crowd began to move toward the historic battlefield. Motor cars and all varieties of vehicles were pressed into service. The battle memorials were inspected and every bit of rising ground was climbed to get a clear view of the field where the sons of the nation's best men went out for their country's cause, and where the Confederate troops fought valiantly for what they thought right. The great majority of the veterans had not visited the field since they fought in it.

Formal Exercises Held.
This afternoon the veterans and their friends returned to town for the formal exercises of the day. The exercises were of a simple but a very impressive character. The speakers stood was located at the junction of Lee avenue and Grant avenue. Here President Taft, Governor Mann of Virginia, Congressman Carlin and other speakers of the day addressed a large and attentive audience.

Cheers For Heroes.
President Taft and other speakers were received with enthusiastic applause. The applause reached its height when various well known leaders of the blue and the Gray were recognized in the assemblage and given seats of honor on the platform. In voices tremulous with emotions natural to the occasion the several speakers delivered orations that were listened to throughout with the deepest attention. Veterans of the blue and Gray vied with one another in paying tribute to the other side. Dour, cheering cheers greeted the names of Johnston, McDowell, Beauregard, Jackson, Lee, Pope and other commanders whose names will ever be associated with Manassas and Bull Run.

A RARE TREAT

The Village Blacksmith

This great masterpiece painted by H. de Mareau will be displayed free to the public on our second floor for TWO WEEKS, COMMENCING JULY 24th. Valued now at $60,000.

To bring this great painting to Janesville costs The Big Store a neat sum, but it is estimated that 20,000 people will see it during the two weeks' exhibition, which cannot help but result favorably to us.

This world famous canvas is the crowning achievement of H. de Mareau, a painter of Cannes, France, who died almost a pauper in 1893. The picture was sold by his widow for $2,500, and after winning a medal at the Grand Salon in Paris, it changed hands five times at a gradually increasing price till its present owner paid $42,500 for it. It is a masterpiece of firelight work and subtle coloring, perfect to the smallest detail, the almost animated portrayal of the subject recalled instantly to mind the words in Longfellow's immortal poem:

"The Smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands."

The picture is 7x8 feet. It has traveled over 70,000 miles in the United States during its various exhibitions, and has been viewed by twelve million people.

INTERURBAN OFFICE AT THE MYERS HOTEL

DEAL CLOSED THIS AFTERNOON FOR THAT PURPOSE.

MASS MEETING HELD

Business Men On West Side of the River Want Property Owners To Withdraw Suits Against Company.

When the Rockford Interurban cars start running into Janesville via South Main street, the new office of the company will be located in the office of the Myers Hotel. A deal with this in view was closed this afternoon.

It is planned to open a arch between the office and the present ladies entrance and put a circular counter there, opening into both office and the old hallway. The ladies waiting room of the hotel on the first floor will be closed up, giving ample room for all purposes needed.

Last evening a mass meeting was held of business men on the west side of the river who desired to urge upon all property-owners along the present route of the line to withdraw their suit for damages against the company that the company might continue to operate along the present Franklin street line.

The petition recites that even if the suits are dropped the best they can hope for is that the interurban may run its cars back down that side of the river. Mr. Nohm, attorney for the company, stated this morning that this might be possible, but hardly probable, as the company had made all its plans to come into Janesville on the Main street line of the local company and go out over the same route. He however stated that the present tracks down Franklin street would be used by the local street car company.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR W. S. FIFIELD

Remains Arrived Here This Afternoon and Services Held At Five O'clock At Oak Hill.

Remains of the late Walter S. Fifield, who passed away at Reno, Nevada, on Tuesday last, arrived here accompanied by his brother, Edward Fifield, at noon today. The funeral services were held at five o'clock this afternoon at Oak Hill cemetery. Dr. David Bell officiated.

The pall bearers were the three sons of the deceased, Charles, James and George Fifield, and William H. Conrad, Harry Ross, Robert Hewitt, George Kimball, and Peter Myers.

CHORISTERS BREAK CAMP ON SATURDAY

The choir boys of Trinity church, who have been camping at Mirror Lake, Delton, Wis., will break camp tomorrow morning and leave Kilbourn on the afternoon train. They are due to arrive in Janesville shortly after eight o'clock Saturday night.

Ideal camping weather, with but one or two showers, and an ideal spot for camping, have made this year's camp one of the pleasantest for years. Bunting, bathing, etc., is with regret that the boys turn their faces homeward. A day's outing at the Delta was also enjoyed.

On Sunday last they sang at the church services at Holy Cross church, Delton and as a mark of appreciation the ladies of the church served the boys an excellent and beautiful supper on Wednesday evening. In addition to having the services at Delton on Sunday the Rev. Henry Wilmann conducted services at Maunton on Tuesday.

Training School Faculty ENTERTAINED LAST NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Buell entertained the faculty of the Rock County Training School at their home on South Jackson street at a six o'clock dinner last night. After a delicious dinner the evening was passed very pleasantly on the lawn. The guests were Prof. Roethe of Edgerton, Mr. and Mrs. Adair, Mr. and Mrs. Lovell, Mrs. G. C. Hyde, Miss Rickman of Jefferson, and Miss Jacobson of Daraboo.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF EQUITY PICNIC

Annual Outing is Scheduled for Next
Thursday, July 27th, at Murray's
Grove, North of Edgerton.
(Special to this Gazette.)

Edgerton, July 21.—The annual picnic of the American Society of Equity will be held Thursday, July 27, at Frank Murray's grove, four miles northwest of Edgerton. A program of the day's event has been arranged which includes a game of baseball in the morning between the married men and single men, followed by a picnic dinner. In the afternoon an address will be given by Assemblyman L. E. Gottle of this city. At the conclusion of the address the Stoughton and Newville baseball teams will engage in a game for honors. Foot races, tug-of-war and other sports are included in the program. The Edgerton concert band has been engaged for the occasion and with favorable weather the event promises a large attendance.

Personal News.
Fred Boonig left today for a week's vacation which he will spend in Shawano county, Wis.
Mrs. Jessie Mulvine is here from Spokane, Wash., on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Eunice Sutton.
W. H. Clarke left for Sparta, yesterday, to spend a few days with his daughter, who resides there.

No Time Wasting.
Olef Larson, working in a millinery warehouse, backed into an elevator shaft and fell down five stories with a load of boxes. Horror-stricken, the other employees rushed down the stairs, only to find him plying himself unharmed out of the rubbish.

"Eas de boss mad?" he whispered cautiously. "Tal' em Ay had to come down for nalls anyway."—Success Magazine.

Unusual Circumstance.
A very unusual circumstance is recorded in the case of two Rockland Indians, one of whom lately died in her seventeenth year. This surviving lady, who is 81, made the baby clothes for the other and in due time also her wedding clothes, and at the last made the funeral shroud and with her own hands dressed the younger woman in it.—Kennebec Journal.

The Greatest Social Force.
The middle classes are the preponderant social force of today in republics as well as in monarchies, in Europe as in America. Everything is everywhere subordinated to the necessity of satisfying them as speedily and as thoroughly as possible.—Perrigo, in Paris Pictorial.

Setting It Straight.

WILLIS MOORE NOW UNDER FIRE.

Weather Bureau Head, Like Willey, Accused of Illegal Expenditures.

Washington, July 21.—Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, has been charged with unlawful expenditure of money for the employment of experts. The charges are almost identical with those brought against Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, James H. Harty, former chief of the distributing division of the weather bureau, filed formal charges against Moore with the department of justice, claiming the unlawful expenditure was made in connection with meteorological observations made by Rev. F. L. Odenbach of Cleveland, O., Attorney General Wickersham sent the charge to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson without recommendation. Mr. Moore refused to comment on the charges.

MILWAUKEE HOST TO GIDEONS.

Christian Commercial Travelers Open Annual Convention in That City.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 21.—The annual national convention of the Gideons opened today in the Y. M. C. A. building and until Sunday night these Christian commercial traveling men will be prominent in the streets and churches of Milwaukee. About five hundred enthusiastic delegates are present, and one of the first things they did was to place bibles in all the rooms of the hotels. Religious meetings are being held in the missions and on the streets, in addition to the convention sessions.

On Sunday the Gideons will hold services in the hotels and churches all over the city, followed by a grand "good night rally" in the Y. M. C. A. building.

John W. Gates Is Recovering.
Paris, July 21.—John W. Gates, whose illness it was once feared would terminate fatally, appears to have turned the corner. Steady improvement has been noted in his condition for several days, and the physicians think that he will continue to improve slowly.

New Counterfeit Is Found.
Washington, July 21.—A new counterfeit bill on the American Exchange National bank of New York has been found circulating in the middle west. It is a photographic reproduction of a genuine bill.

Dainty Cuff Links.
Dainty cuff links may be made of crochet buttons, sewing two together, like the parts of a dumb-bell link, with a strong thread loop of the right length, and buttonholing over it. These links will not be lost like many others.

Slurring It Over.
"I'm a poor conversationalist at these highbrow dinner parties. I'm always afraid of mispronouncing some word." "Take a mouthful of splanach before attempting a word that you are uncertain about."

No Sharing Profits.

M. Paul was a grocer in a French town. Hats overran the place and a price of two sous a head was placed upon them by the town council. M. Paul's errand boy, working early and late, managed to slay 50 rats in the cellars and attics of the shop. The boy took them to the town hall, and, returning jubilant to the grocer's, showed M. Paul the nine francs he had gained. "Hand the money over," he said. "You know very well those rats were mine, not yours!"

The Height of Happiness at His Age.

In what pleasure we find our greatest enjoyment depends much on our age; at one time of life we may like anything best, at another time another. Here was a small boy rolling along the sidewalk in one of those hand-operated wagons which he was propelling with one hand, while in the other he held an ice cream cone which he was eating as he rolled. He was probably the highest attainable happiness at his age.

Our Life's Work.

We are not sent into this world to do anything into which we cannot put our hearts. We have certain work to do for our breed and that is to be done strenuously; other work to do for our delight and that is to be done heartily; neither is to be done by halves or shifts, but with a will; and what is not worth this effort is not to be done at all.—John Ruskin.

In the Sewing Room.

A convenience for the sewing room is a wooden panel with rows of wire nails driven into it and spools of thread put on the nails. If it is hung near the sewing machine and the work basket the desired number of thread may be quickly found.

Locating Mahogany Trees.

Mahogany trees can be found only with great difficulty and by expert woodsmen. The trees do not grow in clumps, but are widely scattered and hidden by the underbrush. The woodmen climb the loftiest trees and thus locate them by their peculiar foliage.

HOT SPELL AFFECTS MILK SUPPLY BADLY

Milk Dealers in Janesville Have Had to Increase the Number of Farmers Producing for Them.

The spell of hot weather that has been with us for the last two months, which has been so hard on crops of all sorts, has reached the milk supply as well. The pastures have been dried up so that it is hard for the farmers to obtain good feed for their cattle, and all around Janesville they have had to resort to the practice of pasturing along the country roads.

This cutting down on the feed obtainable for their cattle has resulted in a similar decrease of the milk yield, and the cows are not nearly as productive as usual or as they should be. The farmers as yet, have been unable to resort to feeding hay, because the hay crop this year was only about one-third of what it ought to be.

Thus the various consumers of milk in this section of the country have begun to feel, although as yet but slightly, the effects of the shortage. They are all running at ordinary capacity but have had to reach out to other farmers for sufficient supply. Shurtlett's ice cream factory, although they have been able to get all they needed for their ice cream, have felt the stringency in the production of butter, and their output of this has decreased considerably.

The other milk consumers are in much the same condition. They have suffered no limitation as yet but have had to take on more farmers in order to keep up to capacity. If such a condition continues the shortage of pasture must inevitably cause a serious shortage in the milk and butter supplies; and these will do their share to help the high cost of living.

There is only one thing that can be hoped for to repair this condition which is affecting all crops, and that is a good soaking rain. A twenty-four hour steady downpour would do wonders for farm products of all character, but it will have to come soon if it is to do all the possible good.

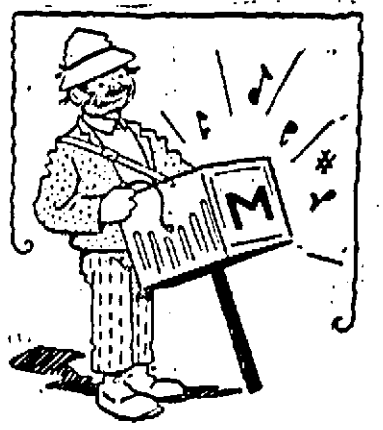

A Double Triumph.

If we can, by a moral effort, pull ourselves up to the mesa, the highlands, where move such figures as Auden and Lincoln and Jesus; if we can rise thus to the point where we can feed our enemy if he hunger and give him drink if he thirst, we have the double satisfaction of triumphing over him, which is pleasant, and over ourselves, which is an infinitely greater pleasure.—Crane.

It Was "Lovely" Cheese.

A young married woman in Cherryvale asked the polite salesman if he had good cheese. "We have some lovely cheese," was the smiling answer. "You should not say lovely cheese," she corrected. "Why not?" it is," he declared. "Because"—with a bounding school dignity—"lovely should be used to qualify only something that is alive." "Well," he said, "I'll stick to lovely."—Cherryvale (Kan.) Journal.

ITALIANS IN HOLD-UP START FOR ITALY

Affraid To Remain After Robbery On Wednesday Night, Four Italians Start Homeward.

Because they were badly frightened as a result of the holdup in the yards on Wednesday night when they and eight of their countrymen were relieved of $48, two revolvers, and two watches, four Italian laborers, who were employed at the South Janesville roundhouse, left this morning for Chicago, en route to Italy.

It was suspected by some that the holdup men were Italians, who came to a gang that is working through the country, trying to intimidate other laborers of the same nationality, by black hand methods, and in some cases, like that of Wednesday night, resorting to open highway robbery to take the hardihood of the more practical Italians. Careful questioning on the part of the men in charge at the yards, failed, however, to confirm those suspicions. The victims of the assault declared that the robbers were not from their own country and they lay the blame on a gang of young loafers that were noticed in the yards during the early part of Wednesday afternoon.

No traces of the robbers have been found even though the local officers have searched diligently through the vicinity of the yards on the night of the robbery, and have been on the lookout ever since that time. The force of Italians at the roundhouse was completely disorganized yesterday as a result of the attack given them the night before, and some more of them are expected soon to follow the example of those who have gone to seek safety in their homeland.

NEW PARLOR CAR SERVICE TO AND FROM CHICAGO

Eight A. M. Southbound and 7:40 P. M. Northbound Trains Fitted With Better Accommodations Today. Early morning travellers to the "Windy City," leaving here at eight o'clock in the morning, will have a chance in the future to enjoy the comforts of parlor cars, which were placed on the train which leaves the Northwestern depot at that time. Likewise those who are coming from Chicago on the train which is scheduled to arrive here at 7:40 in the evening can have all the accommodations which are usually furnished on through trains.

These two trains, 534 and 541 are the oldest regular runs between this city and Chicago and the additional accommodations of parlor car service which was installed beginning this morning will attract many travellers going to and from Chicago.

George Whitehead, car repair foreman, and three carmen, Albert Klomp, Clement Wurzer and Fred Strampe, were at Beloit yesterday attending to the cars that composed the trains of the 101 Ranch. They found it necessary to make repairs on the cars that were damaged at Madison, when one of the cars tipped over and to inspect the whole train and make minor repairs on all the cars.

Martin Gahan, dispatcher's helper has resigned.

John Schumacher was off duty yesterday.

Harold Dolan was granted a vacation of a few weeks, effective yesterday.

George Grandold, machinist helper is laying off today.

Engineer Starrett is relieving Engineer Heron on the half and half switch run.

Fireman Wilkins went to Harvard this morning to take the milk train out from that place.

Engineer Coen and Fireman Craig went south on train 580 today.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Engineer Clark and Fireman Turner took train 173 at 5:00 a. m. on the R. & St. W. division with engine 1611.

Engineer Harrison and Fireman Cox are in place of Mackeson and Honan on trains 20 and 7 between Janesville and Milwaukee today.

John Connors and William Lageman car smiths, have resigned and the vacancies were filled today by the employment of Reuben Bickel and Paul Greig.

Fireman Hazlett is laying off today.

Engineer Beames and Fireman Williams have charge of train 162 on the C. and M. division today.

Fireman Hicks is on the sick list and Fireman Kell is taking his place.

Engineer Wilkison and Fireman

Hammel went out at 5:30 this morning on the M. P. division with train 165, engine 851.

Engineer Evans and Fireman Herl left at 7:40 this morning on the C. & M. run with train 194, engine 1612.

Engineer Patter and Fireman Kirkpatrick left on the M. P. division at 7:30 a. m.

This paper has been studying for sometime past the relative importance, interest and appeal the "advertising" of a modern paper should bear to the other "news" set forth in its columns.

THE RESULT IS STAGGERING TO THE REPORTORIAL AND EDITORIAL PRIDE

It has forcibly come to us that what interests the world most today and has most interested them since the world began is summed up in

What to eat—what to wear—What to have in the home—How to best spend money to secure the most pleasure and happiness and comfort.

(Compared with these great points which vitally concern humanity—the lesser happenings of life are but incidents)

And the persons best qualified to interest the people of this city in these matters of most moment are by all means the merchants—the men who are in touch with the world's markets—who know what is being done in new discoveries and originations of merchandise and food stuffs, to raise standards of living or change modes and styles.

Do the people of this city really appreciate this great truth—Do the merchants appreciate it themselves, is a question this paper has been asking itself and also the question.

How can this paper help to bring a closer confidence and sense of mutual understanding and benefit, between advertisers and the public?

In answer to this question:

This paper has set aside this space for one day each week and has asked the merchants of this city to contribute

What in their opinion will be their one most appealing bargain for the day

Moreover we mean to devote this space one day each week to announcing these "best" bargains—We also mean to protect our merchants and our readers in the sincerity of all offerings—and so we will appoint a competent shopping committee to each week inspect all "best" bargain offerings and decide which is the one best bargain of all the decision of the committee to be published in the Ad of the week following the insertion of the "best bargain"

THIS WEEK THE COMMITTEE WILL CONSIST OF THREE LADIES FROM THE AID SOCIETY OF THE METHODIST CHURCH

42 Merchants have responded this week

some with price cut—some with "new arrivals"—some with style novelties—some with unique originations—some with offerings possessing more than ordinary appeal to eye, palate or ear, but in every instance that store's best bargain

This ad is bound to contain many things—to interest and appeal to every reader of this paper—many needed items at a big saving—many wanted things—many new suggestions.

and so even—if you haven't a need, desire or wish unfulfilled at the present time the reading of this ad and the succeeding ads will be well worth your while in developing your discernment—your faculty for picking out real bargains when you see them, just for the interest and satisfaction of determining in advance in your own mind the "bargain" which the committee will select as "best" and also because these announcements from every point of view are bound to make.

The Conditions of Discipleship

By REV. H. M. TIMMONS
Pastor Washington Street Methodist Church, Houston, Texas

TEXT.—If any man will be my Disciple, let him take up his cross and follow me.—Matthew 16:24.

Jesus is a great teacher and seeks to impart unto his followers fundamental truth. It is of utmost importance that men have a correct conception of Jesus Christ himself. Hence the question he asked the twelve in the beginning of this chapter, "Whom do men say that I the son of man, am?" What the world thinks of him is important, but he had a more personal question to ask: "Whom do ye say that I am?" Then Peter speaking as the father gave him utterance, said: "Thou art Christ, the son of the living God." This is the basic fact of Christianity.

Notwithstanding Peter gave utterance to this great truth, the master in a short while administers to him the sternest rebuke that he ever administered to any follower of his.

He then proceeds to outline the conditions of discipleship, "If any man will." The highest expression of religion is not to be found in reason. Our conclusions cannot be infallible, because they are the result of training, and, in some instances, conditions. Yet we should cultivate this faculty. The master never put a premium upon ignorance. He desires intelligent as well as faithful service.

Neither is the highest expression of religion found in emotion, though this is an important part of our nature. Strong men sometimes disparage emotion. The emotions are productive of great good and much happiness, but they cannot be depended upon as final in religious expression.

But the highest expression of religion is to be found in the human will. Christ is not concerned about who is able, for he has made it possible for every man to inherit eternal life. But he is vastly concerned about who will. One has said that the normal man is two-thirds will and one-third intellect. The intellect is the shell, the will is the powder within the shell that gives it its force and power. The feelings are waves thrown off from the side of a great ship; the will is the rudder underneath, unseen, yet all important.

People who are governed entirely by their emotions are hard to handle and make most of the trouble in any sphere. A great locomotive can draw a large number of empty cars, but they make a great deal of noise and it is difficult to keep them on the track. It is necessary for the church to pull a great many empties, but they are noisy and unstable. Holiness is not the extinction of the will. When we say "Thy will be done," it does not mean the destruction, but the development of our will to the point where it coincides with the will of God. Hugh Price Hughes has given an admirable definition of sanctification. He says: "It is a supreme desire not to want to have our own way."

"Let him deny himself." This means vastly more than physical self-denial. There is often a species of selfishness in self-denial. Men become recluses when they could be useful.

Agnes once said that the greatest temptations are not the ones that come from without, but the ones that come from within. The strong man fortifies himself against the enemy that can be seen, then falls before the one that steals upon him from within his own life.

"And take up his cross." This indicates a positive life. We are not told to fall under the weight of the cross, but to bear up under it. We are not to be passive, inactive men under difficulties but men of victory. Victory was never won except by aggressiveness. The man of action, even though the action be not always commendable, is more honored than the man who has the courage to act at all. Every person's cross is not the same, but crosses there will be in every life. 'Tis the power to bear the cross and not to let the cross bear us that determines the character of our discipleship.

"And follow me." Christianity is not a code of laws. Rules cannot be made for every future condition of life. Instead of its being obedience to rules and regulations it is a life to be lived full and glorious in accordance with the will of God, which is revealed unto us. If we are willing we "shall know of the doctrine."

"Except ye become as little children ye shall in nowise enter the kingdom." The master does not mean for us to become puerile and childish. If ever strong men were needed to do the work that God wants done, that time is now.

What he wants is that we shall have the spirit of teachableness we find in the child. The child realizing its lack of knowledge seeks to learn. We are to have the same spirit with reference to religion. The spirit of God will not leave the willing mind in darkness.

Finally Christian character is not so much an attainment as it is a growth. At the last it will not be judged by its accomplishments, but by the progress it has made.

We should be proud to have a house that had been planned by a famous architect; but our life may be planned by the most glorious of all architects.

Shrewd Deduction.

Rich Old Man—If I'm, my heirs all look very cross today, I must be a little better.—Don Vivant.

MISS HAZEL SCHMIDT.

GIRL WHO HAS SLEPT ELEVEN WEEKS THOUGHT TO BE DYING.

Miss Hazel Schmidt, from a photograph taken during her sleep which has extended now over 77 days, during which time she has been awake only four times, and then for but a few hours at a time.

Vandalia, Ill.—Pretty Hazel Schmidt who has slept almost continuously for seventy-seven days, is said by her attending physician to be falling rapidly and cannot long live. Her face and form are emaciated and during the seventy-seven days she has scarcely had a mouthful to eat. Last Saturday she awoke, rubbed her eyes as if she had come out of a night's refreshing sleep, and remarked laughingly, when told she had slept seventy days: "That is a long time for one to sleep, isn't it? I suppose it is true, but I can't realize it."

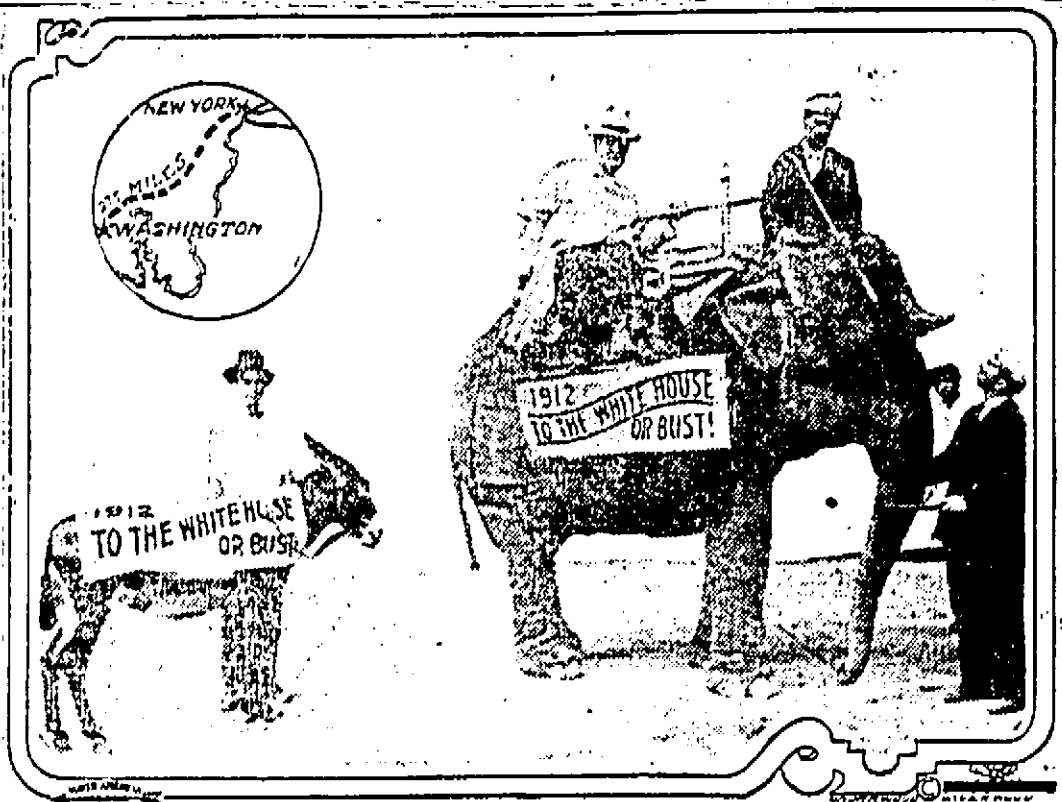

She expressed her desire for substantial food, but before the family could prepare the same she had again relapsed into a trance and since then has been gradually weakening. Local physicians have been treating her continuously throughout the last seventy-seven days and night and day her father, Alderman Schmidt and her mother have taken turns in watching at her bedside.

Specialists from St. Louis and Chicago have been called. Medicines, osteopathic massages, stimulants, electric shocks were applied without success. Fearful noises were tried, but back to primitive methods of exorcising evil spirits, but the girl's deathlike slumber remained unbroken. Stomach specialists, specialists of spinal diseases, neurologists, have all been forced to acknowledge themselves unable to cope with the mysterious malady.

Friends and physicians alike now announce the case fatal and her death is momentarily expected.

RACE BETWEEN ELEPHANT AND DONKEY TO SETTLE BET.

New York City.—The elephant and the donkey—just as you know them in the daily political cartoons—are not going to wait till 1912 for the big race to Washington. They started on the evening of July 7, at Luna park. At the crack of the pistol they were off—to race through fair weather and foul, storm and stress, even roads and rough, all the way from Coney Island to the White House at Washington. The big, gray elephant and the dapper, yellow donkey carry big old-fashioned panels on which, in red letters, of the elephant with heart and hand? will appear this stirring advice: "1912 So it wound up by Thompson offering to bet "Uncle Joe" the fastest, fattest, blackest, most fragrant cigar obtainable on the result of an actual race—run, walk, halt or gallop—between an elephant and a donkey.

EARLY JANESVILLE PIONEER IS DEAD

Word Received By Local Relative of Death of Mrs. Wm. D. Packler in Iowa.—Came To Janesville in 1848.

Word has been received by Janesville relatives of the death of Mrs. Wm. D. Packler at her home in Lincoln County, Iowa, on July 18th. Mrs. Packler, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Turnbull, was one of the early residents of Janesville. She settled here with her mother in 1848, moving here from New York state, where she was born in 1837.

She was eleven years old when she came to Janesville and the city was a mere village. It is said that the Indians in the vicinity for outnumbered the white people. In 1855 she was married to Wm. D. Packler, who an early settler here and together in 1863 they moved to town, which has since been her home. Mrs. Packler was stricken with apoplexy in the latter part of May and it was certain that she would not survive. She has two sisters and one brother living in this city: Martha McCoy, Estelle Sanor, and John Turnbull. She leaves five sons, all of whom are living.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

By H. L. RANN.

It is all right to rhapsodize about the man who whistles while he works, but nothing will make a mule hold up his morning offering quicker than a loose-lipped hired man who lays his profile against her ribs and whistles in four different keys at the same time, while filling a twelve-quart pail with seaweed.

When a cow becomes nervous and unstrung over noise and song, her lacteal mechanism is about as useful as sweet milk at an 18th century convention. If we had a hired man who indulged on whistling "Just Before the Battle, Mother," in the ear of a sensitive holder which is trying to get rid of her surplus product, we would call him before he infected the entire herd with hysterics.

We have often wondered why the hoot owl is so unpopular a member of society. The voice of the male owl is fully as melodious as that of the average tenor, and his repertoire is just about as extensive. We have seen men try to insert a 44-caliber bullet in the lung of a tinoful owl simply because that bird does in and makes angulements, and these same men will turn around and take a drag from an Egyptian cigarette with a flavor which would turn the stomach of an Angora goat. Life is full of incongruities.

The Holstein calf may be all right as an article of virtue, but as a bread winner he is a more dismal failure than a string bean on the pasture course. The Holstein inherits a love for sleep and ground feed, and it is a toss-up which one he would rather have. You can put a calf of this species in the hammock and rock him to sleep with a burst of song, and unless you cut the rope or ring the dinner bell he will freeze to his humble pallet until his corpulence congeals. When it comes to indolence, the offspring of a Holstein heifer makes the Brotherhood of Hobos look busier than a small boy with the shingles. More Holstein calves come to a violent death at the hands of red automobiles and hate machine spreaders than all other beasts of the field combined, unless it is the buff Cochiti rooster, which will stand up in the road and crow in the face of a seven-passenger touring car. The only way to get any action out of the Holstein is to summer up behind him when he is wrapped in thought and jar him out of his trance with a four-thud fork.

HONOR BRIDE-TO-BE WITH DINNER PARTY

Miss Mae Holmes of Evansville, Entertained Wednesday Evening in Honor of Miss Maude Fessenden, (Special to the Gazette.)

Evansville, July 20.—Miss Mae Holmes entertained at a dinner Wednesday evening, the party being given in honor of Miss Maude Fessenden, whose wedding to Robert K. Whiting of Madison, will be an event of the autumn. The table decorations were suggestive of the occasion, and consisted of hearts, cupid and cut flowers.

Unique guessing games were a feature of the evening's entertainment. In order to afford how well versed the bride-to-be was in a knowledge of kitchen utensils she was blind folded and a full display of these articles placed before her, and with but a few exceptions, she was able to name them. The guests were able to name with cards and pencils and each were requested to make out a grocery list suitable for a bride's first order, and prizes were given for the most sensible and economical lists.

Mrs. Charles Jungblut of Beloit, proved the most capable along this line. Miss Jeanie Crow received second prize and Miss Pearl Van Vleet, third.

Beside the guest of honor there were present the Misses Maude Stevens, Josephine and Jennie Crow, Cora Fairbanks, Pearl and Winifred Van Vleet, Lolla Ahleson, Hazel Hanksen, Mae Phillips, Mrs. P. E. Jones and Mrs. Jungblut.

Personal.

Mrs. Charles Doolittle and daughter, Charles, will go to Winnebago City, Minn., in a few days to spend two weeks with relatives.

Miss Hazel Hanksen returned Wednesday from Havana, Ill., where she has been the guest of Miss Maude Whelock.

Miss Josephine Crow will teach next year in the public school at La Crosse.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Morgan and little son and Mrs. E. M. Fairbanks, have taken a cottage at Kegonsa, and will have tomorrow for an outing.

C. D. Doolittle will visit in Beloit today.

Miss Lolla Van Patten has gone to Oshkosh to visit friends for several days.

MISS WINIFRED GRANGER ENTERTAINS AT PARTY

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

IN A RECENT novel, Elizabeth, the young heroine, in a moment of insane anger with the man she is engaged to and really loves, marries a man for whom she cares nothing.

Of her state of mind afterwards the author writes: "She would fall to thinking with vague amazement that the irreparable catastrophe was out of all proportion to its cause. It was monstrous that a crazy moment should ruin a whole life—two whole lives—hers and David's. It was as if a pebble should deflect a river from its course and make it turn and overflow a landscape."

"Suddenly it seemed to her as she looked across the roaring gulf that separated her from the past that all her life had been just a sunny slope down to the edge of the gulf. All these 'harmless' tempers which had had no results had pushed her to this result."

"It is not the pebble that turns the current. It is the easy slope that invites it. All her life Elizabeth had been inviting this moment—just as some of us are today inviting baleful tomorrows. When we shall look back from the depths of these tomorrows and see what we have done, then will we call on the mountains to fall on us and the hills to cover us."

I quote these paragraphs because I think they contain a lesson that more people need than will read the novel. There are no isolated wrong deeds.

There are no wrong deeds without consequences. We give way to temper, we tell a lie, we fail a friend, we are cruel or mean or impure in any way and perhaps nothing happens.

And we think we are fortunate because there are no consequences to our acts.

But we are wrong. There are always consequences.

You think perhaps I mean merely the effect upon the character, and you think you do not need to worry about such vague spiritual consequences as long as there are no material ones. I do mean that, but I mean much more than that. Every act you do affects your character and ultimately your character affects your life. Just as surely as you get the spiritual results you will also get the material consequences.

In another passage in this wonderful novel the author says of Elizabeth: "She gasped at the realization—which comes to most of us human creatures sooner or later—that sin may be forgiven, but consequences are eternal."

That is something we all fail to realize until we have to. We are slow to appreciate that although our yielding to this and that and the other small temptation brings no perceptible consequences, it is slowly but surely paving the way for some larger yielding that shall bring life-changing consequences.

The only way you can escape the consequences for weak and wicked acts is to neutralize them by good and strong acts.

You cannot prevent the acid from hurting your hand by trying to wash it off, but you can save yourself from serious burn by promptly neutralizing it with an alkali.

Today is the day for those of us who need it to apply the alkali of self control and good deeds to our characters.

WHAT DO YOU DO TO PROVIDE ENTERTAINMENT?

The Gazette Feature Editor Desires Ideas From Readers Regarding Summer Season Pastimes.

One business who expected to entertain covered guests remarked to a friend, that she didn't know "what on earth to do" to entertain them. Her friend came to her rescue with several suggestions which were just what she wanted and when the guests went away they expressed themselves most emphatically as to the manner in which they had enjoyed themselves.

There are many hostesses in such a position at times, and there are, too, many persons who seem to know just what is to be done with the means at hand for entertainment of guests. The Gazette Feature Editor is anxious to get your ideas on this problem of summer entertainment, and something of your experiences, perhaps, solving difficult situations.

Nearly all the women readers will be interested in reading these plans, but the Feature Editor is desirous of interesting you in writing your own ideas.

It would be most agreeable if every woman who reads the Woman's Page would send in an article on how she or some person she has visited, succeeded in making the time pass most pleasantly.

The time for receiving the last article will be August 1st, a week from next Tuesday. Begin to plan your article at once. Address Feature Editor, care Gazette.

First Prize—Caloric Fireless Cook-stove.

Second Prize—Set of 45 pieces of Flow Blue Dishes.

Third Prize—Vacuum Bottle.

Fourth Prize—Sampson Kitchen Scales.

The contest will end August 1st.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

TRIES to the task we love. Whatever that task may be. For the work seems light and the question bright. To heart and hand 'tis a sure delight. —L. M. Thornton.

DAINTY MEXICAN DISHES.

This manner of serving spaghetti is typically Mexican: Fry two large pork chops brown, then remove them and cook until brown three minced onions and two cloves of garlic. Put into a bottle with the chops and onions two cans or a quart of tomatoes, two green peppers with the seeds removed, a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, celery salt and table salt to taste. Simmer until the chops fall to pieces, strain through a coarse colander. The sauce should be of the consistency of thick cream. Roll half a package of spaghetti in a large kettle of boiling salted water. Do not break, but add carefully to the water and add water as it boils out. Do not cover, cook forty-five minutes, drain in a colander and pour over cold water to blanch it. Put the spaghetti into the tomato sauce and set on the stove where it will keep hot, but not boil, for fifteen minutes.

Arrange in a deep dish and sprinkle the top with grated parmesan cheese. Serve with grated cheese and stuffed olives.

Mexican Ice Cream.—Put two cups of granulated sugar in a saucepan over the fire, and stir constantly until melted, add two cups of walnut meats and pour into a pan to harden. When perfectly cold, roll or chop fine. Crumble two dozen macaroons into fine crumbs and brown in the oven. Make a rich custard of the yolks of four eggs, one-half cup of sugar and two cups of cream. Cook until thick then pour over the beaten whites of two eggs and let cool. To a quart of cream add a third of a cup of sugar and beat until well mixed. Add to the custard and flavor with vanilla; then freeze. When half frozen add the macaroon crumbs and half of the walnut mixture. Let ripen two or three hours and sprinkle the remaining walnuts over the mixture when serving.

Hardening Steel Electrically. In an article on "Hardening Steel Electrically" in the American Machinist, E. F. Latta points out that the use of electricity for this purpose is now becoming more extended, due to the fact that exactly the right temperature for the particular kind of steel being hardened can be obtained both easily and accurately.

Butter and Microbes. Butter is an excellent breeding place for bacteria which tend to decompose it until it is useless as food, unless it is kept in a cold place. Salt also retards their growth, but has this disadvantage, that it makes the decomposition difficult to detect either by taste or smell. Hence the preference for sweet butter by those who are particular about having it fresh.

Bridegroom's Sad Fate. While Sava Todorovitch was dancing on his wedding day at Verkhna, Servia, a naked dagger accidentally flew from the hand of one of his friends and pierced his heart.

A BREAKFAST CAP SURE TO PROVE BECOMING.

One of these dainty caps may be made in an afternoon and very little material is required. The cap pictured is made of a strip of embroidery left over from something else and at either side of this are sewed strips of Val insertion. Beyond the insertion is tucked white lawn. The crown is circular in shape and a casing is run at the edge for a draw string so that the cap may be spread out flat to be laundered, for of course a soiled or mussed breakfast cap is an abomination. Hiding the draw string and the stitches which attach the lace frill is a band of pink satin ribbon with rosettes at either side of the cap.

WHEN A CLASSIC COIFFURE IS BECOMING.

Not every girl could afford to show the contour of her head in this frank style, but for the girl with a small, well-shaped head and regular features this classic hair-dressing is charming. The hair is waved and parted and the ends are twisted into a figure eight, placed across the head, instead of up and down, just above the nape of the neck. Over the front of the hair goes a flat fillet or band—in this case a shell bandeau set with small rhinestones was used. A most important point in the building of this coiffure, is the arrangement of soft curls and waves in front of the fillet on forehead and temples.

A LITTLE FRENCH FROCK WITH HAT TO MATCH.

Bands of tulle de julea flowered cotton material believed of the French dressmakers, make this little frock very easy in color though the design is quite simple. The material of the frock is cream marquisette and this is pelated in very small pleats and set into the tulle de julea bands at shoulder and hem, the shoulder band continuing down the short sleeve. White satin in a cuterene design covers the seam at the edge of the trimming bands. The sash with its big bow at the front is of Nantier blue ribbon.

MISS THEODORA SHONTZ

PAPA DON'T PAY RENT FOR DUCHESS AND HER MOTHER.

Paris—Paris is still upset over the fact that an American millionaire has refused to furnish his wife and titled daughter with all the American dollars they saw fit to use. The case involves Theodore P. Shontz and his wife and daughter, Duchess de Clauvins. Much has been said recently regarding the domestic affairs of the Shontzes. The strong typical American letter by the husband and father requesting that in view of the fact that he is still supporting them his wife and daughter return to America, was given full publicity. Now the Shontz face evulsion because they have no funds with which to pay rent arrears. It is stated in the Shontz office that he has sent them sufficient money to take care of the rent, but this check has not been received to date. It is quite evident that one American gentleman has little or no use for the social advantages of the French Court and would very much prefer that his wife and daughter return to the United States and cease parading about Europe, lavishing money everywhere.

The Skin and Not the Blood. Until recently it has been a generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely a skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Press Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Meritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. Reliable Drug Co. are commissioned vills.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN Food Specialist

ONE SOLUTION OF SERVANT GIRL PROBLEM.

A well known writer explains in a recent magazine article how he and his wife have solved the servant girl problem by living exclusively upon nuts and fruits, the meal being ready upon the arrival of the grocer's boy, and the dishes washed by burning them. This method can be followed without restricting the diet to fruit and nuts, bread and other cereals being supplied ready to eat. The idea that there is any physiological benefit in a hot meal is erroneous. The mixing of hot and cold foods is indeed injurious. Our habits of eating are altogether too complex for the enjoyment of the larger life, for comfort and for health.

OTTUMWA WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreary and full forms: bleeding, pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to you for my cure."—Mrs. HANNAH E. WAMPDEN, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous medicine, made only from roots and herbs, has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorant of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, confidential and always helpful.

Keeping Young.

A HURDY-GURDY was playing a popular air. Children were clustered about it; some, dancing on the sidewalk. But the older people hurried by, intent on the business in hand.

The seductive tune rose on the quiet summer night, and the children's voices and laughter and the trip of their little feet blended with it to make a harmony that set visions to dancing through the brain. But, the older people hurried by with never a thought or a look.

Why shouldn't the lit of that music have set the feet of eighty to dancing as well as the feet of eight—or if not exactly to dancing, for that might have caused a mob, so hard and fast are our ideas of what becomes eighty, brought them at any rate, to a pause, their blood thrilling to the music and the night and the children's laughter? To be sure, a hurdy-gurdy is not an orchestra. But it isn't only the music itself that sets the children to dancing. It's the heart of youth that finds joy in it. Why can't we have the heart of youth that joys simply in life and motion, that feels the lit of the melody even though it may be slightly faded, into whose blood like wine enters the intoxicating softness of the summer night? Why can't we keep this, and add to it the memories and experiences that come with years?

This little street scene, for instance, brings to mind Tolstoy's account of a night in Lucerne, with all his wonderful description of snowy mountains and sapphires lake and the wondrous music of a wandering minstrel. Children have no such memories as these. They live only in the moment. But the older person watching them can thrill to the music and their laughter, yet bring to memory this other picture, different and yet alike, and so double his pleasure in the present.

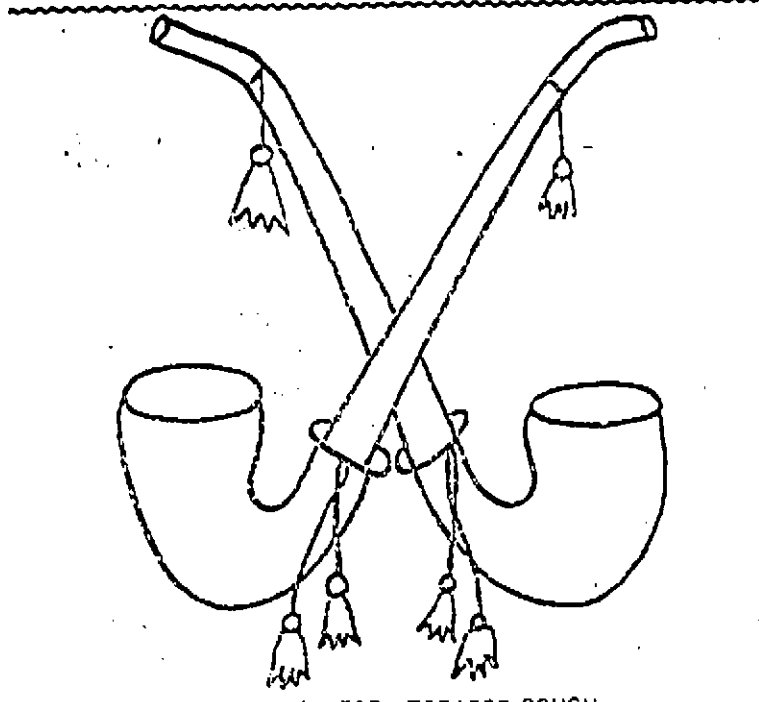

The trouble is we fail to keep young. We close our hearts to these impressions. We hurry by music and children and flowers and sky, our minds absorbed in wondering what the stock market will be tomorrow, or whether our new gown will be done in time for the dance at the club, or if Mrs. So and So is going to invite us for a week-end. The spirit of youth is driven out, and if it tries to return, it finds closed doors. It may be necessary occasionally to think upon these things, but we needn't close our mind and heart to all else.

We have all eternally to live, so why begin to grow old yet? Why grow old at all? Why not keep the heart of youth that rejoices in life and motion and color and all that is beautiful and joyous, and add to it the ripe experiences of the years as they pass. Let them interpret youth, but do not let them drive it away.

Youth is a state of mind. It isn't a matter of white hair and stiff joints. It will stay with us if we bid it welcome. So why not open our hearts to it, enjoy life to the full, and forget the record in the family Bible?

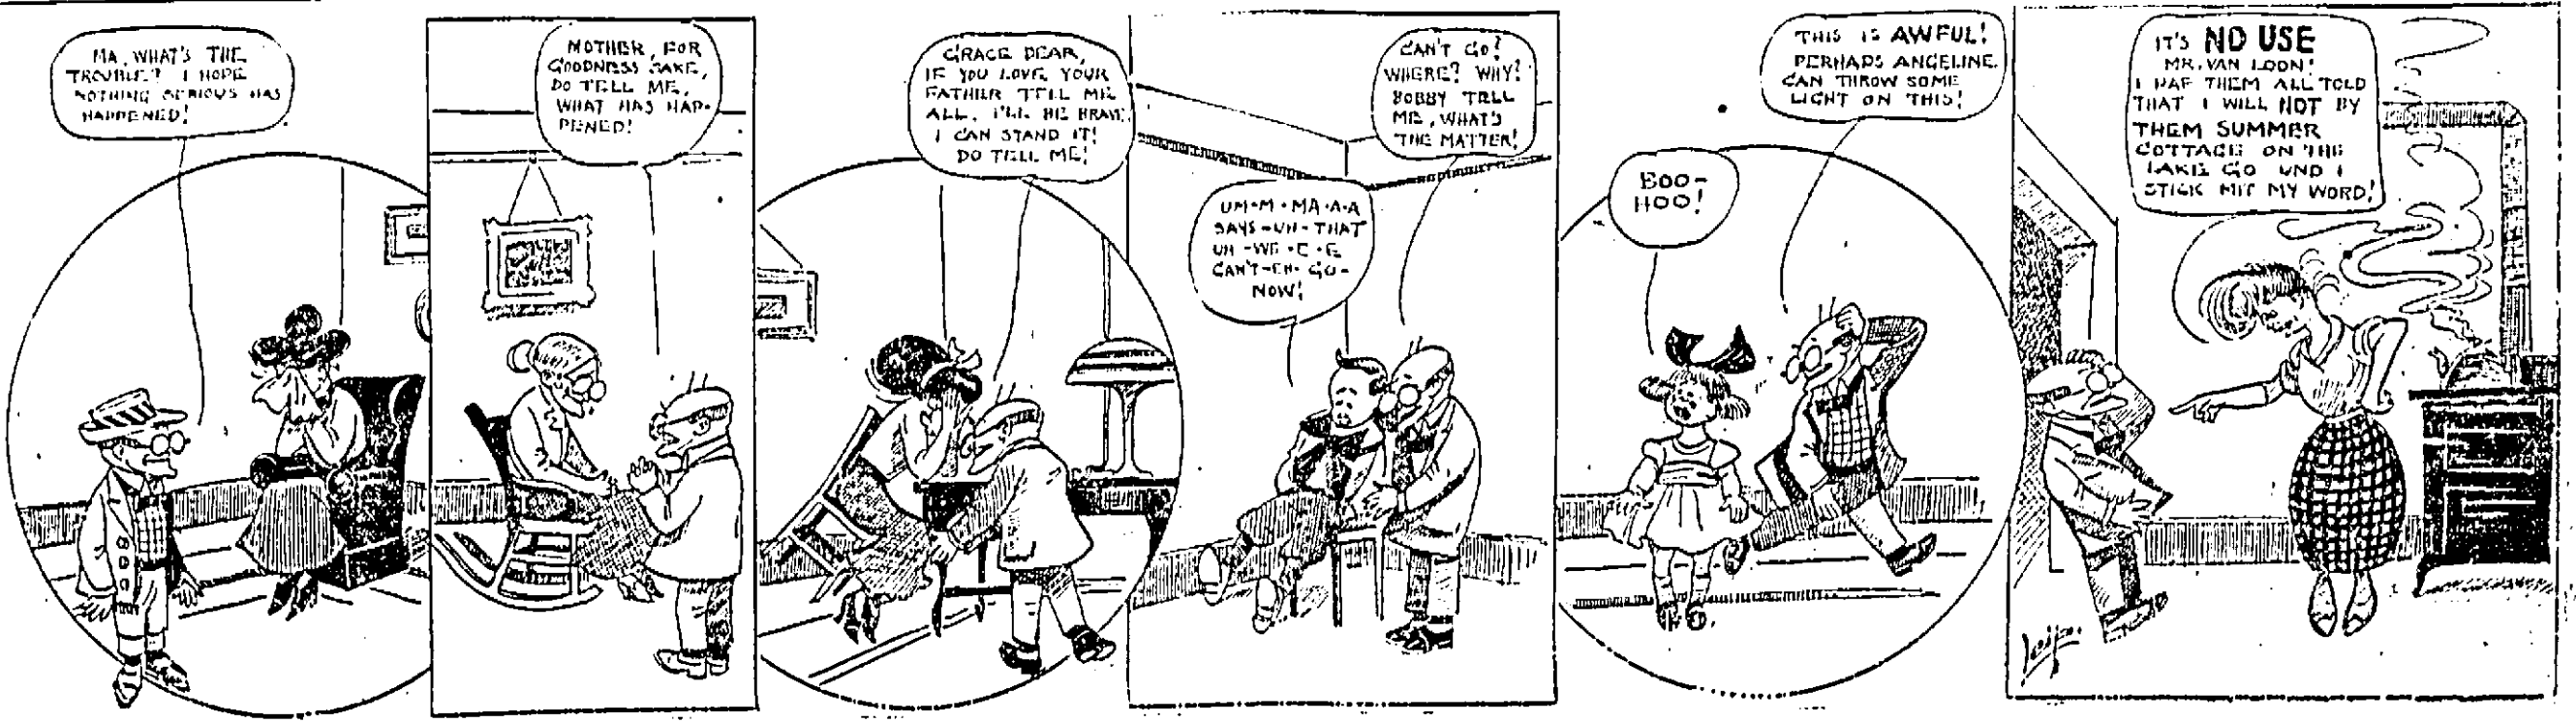

And if we open our heart to youth and keep young mentally, it will help us physically. Our bodies will keep young longer. When the blood courses buoyantly through it, joints do not get stiff, nor the system clogged with the impurities that bring languor, inertia, and dullness. So aside from the greater richness keeping young mentally gives life, it adds to the physical for in living.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—And the catastrophe was really worse than Father thought.

The Taming of Red Butte Western

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

The trainmaster shook his head. "I've stowed over that till I'm threatened with softening of the brain," he confessed.

"Never mind. You have a comparatively easy job," Lidgerwood went on. "That engine is somewhere this side of the Crosswater hills. Copah hasn't seen it. It is too big to be hidden under a bushel basket. Find it and you'll be hot on the trail of the carload robbers."

McCloskey got upon his feet as if he were going at once to begin the search, but Lidgerwood detained him.

"Hold on. I'm not quite through yet. There is another matter. Some years ago there was a building and the ostensible object being to help the railroad men to own their homes. As I understand it, the railroad company fathered it, or at least events some of the officials took stock in it. When it died there was a considerable deficit, together with a failure on the part of the executive committee to account for a pretty liberal cash balance."

"I've heard that, too," McCloskey admitted. "The story goes that the house building scheme was promoted by the old Red Butte Western bosses and if a man didn't take stock he got himself disliked. If he did take it the wife of the trainmaster, he is able to fight his own battles. It comes nearer home, Mac. The treasurer was Hallock."

McCloskey rose noticeably, tipped to the door of communication with the outer office and opened it with a quick jerk. "There was no one there."

"I thought I heard something," he said. "Didn't you think you did?" Lidgerwood shook his head.

"Hallock has gone over to the storekeeper's office to check up the time rolls. He won't be back today."

McCloskey closed the door and returned to his chair.

"If I say what I think you'll be asking me for proofs, Mr. Lidgerwood, and I have none. Besides, I'm a prejudiced witness. I don't like Hallock."

Quite unconsciously Lidgerwood picked up a pencil and began scribbling idly on his desk blotter. "I don't want to do Hallock an injustice," he went on, after a hesitant pause. "I don't do it to dig up the past for him or for anybody. I was hoping that you might know some of the inside details and so make it easier for me to get at the truth. I can't believe that Hallock was culpably responsible for the disappearance of the money."

"I am not a fair witness," protested McCloskey. "There's been gossip, and I've listened to it."

"About this building and loan mess?" "No; about the wife."

"To Hallock's discredit, you mean?" "You'd think so. There was a scandal of some sort; I don't know what it was—never wanted to know, but there are men here in Angles who hint that Hallock killed the woman and sunk her body in the 'Manymony'."

"I haven't," exclaimed Lidgerwood under his breath. "I can't believe that, Mac."

"I don't know that I do, but I can tell you a thing that I do know, Mr. Lidgerwood. Hallock is a devil when it comes to paying a grudge. There was a freight conductor named Jackson that he had a shindy with in Mr. Ferguson's time, and it came to blows. Hallock got the worst of the fist fight, but Ferguson made a joke of it and wouldn't fire Jackson. Hallock hated his time like an Indian and worked it around so that Jackson got promoted to a passenger run. After that it was easy."

"How so?" "It was the devil's own game. Jackson was a handsome young fellow, and Hallock set a woman on him—a woman out of Cut Higgs' dance hall. From that to holding out fares to get more money to squander was only a step for the young fool, and he took it. Having lured the trap and set it, Hallock sprung it. Jackson's got a couple of years to serve yet, I believe."

Lidgerwood was listening thoughtfully. The story which had ended so disastrously for the young conductor threw a rather lurid side light upon Jackson's accuser. Yet the superintendent was just enough to distinguish between gross villainy and an evil which bore no relation to the violent one.

"A financially honest man might still have a weakness for playing even in a personal quarrel," he commented. "Your story proves nothing more than that."

"I know it."

"But I am going to run the other thing down, too," Lidgerwood insisted. "Hallock shall have a chance to clear himself, but if he can't do it he can't stay with me."

At this the trainmaster changed front so suddenly that Lidgerwood began to wonder if his estimate of the man's courage was at fault.

"Don't do that, Mr. Lidgerwood. Don't stir up the devil in that long haired kilted fighter at such a time as this," he begged. "The Lord knows you've got trouble enough on hand as it is without digging up something that belongs to the past."

"I know, but justice is justice," was the decisive rejoinder. "The question is still a live one, as the complaint of the grievance committee proves. If I dodge, my refusal to investigate will be used against me in the labor trouble which you say is brewing. I'm not going to dodge, McCloskey."

"You haven't asked my advice, Mr. Lidgerwood, but here it is anyway," said McCloskey. "Plaster the owner of the Wire Silver mine over in Timmington Park, was the president of that building and loan outfit. He and Hallock are at daggers drawn, for some reason that I've never understood. If you could get them together perhaps they could make some sort of statement that would quiet the kickers for the time being, at any rate."

Lidgerwood looked up quickly. "That's odd," he said. "No longer than yesterday Gidley suggested precisely the same thing."

McCloskey was on his feet again and fumbling behind him for the door-knob.

"I'm all in," he exclaimed. "When it comes to figuring with Gidley and Plaster and Hallock, all in the same breath, I'm done."

Lidgerwood made a memorandum on his desk calendar to take the building and loan matter up with Hallock the following day. But another wreck intervened, and after the wreck a conference with the Red Butte mine owners postponed all office business for an additional twenty-four hours. It was late in the evening of the third day when the superintendent's special steamed home from the west, and Lidgerwood, who had dined in his car, went directly to his office in the Crow's Nest.

He had scarcely settled himself at his desk for an attack upon the accumulation of mail when Benson came in. It was a trouble call, and the young engineer's face advertised it.

"It's no use talking, Lidgerwood," he began. "I can't do business on this railroad until you have killed off some of the things and highlanders."

Lidgerwood swung the paper knife aside and whirled his chair to face the new complaint.

"What is the matter now, Jack?" he snapped.

"Oh, nothing much—when you're used to it, only about a thousand dollars' worth of aluminum timber going glimmering; that's all. It's the Gloria bridge. We had the timbers all ready to pull out the old and put in the new, and the shift was to be made today between trains. Last night every stick of the new stock disappeared."

Lidgerwood was not a profane man, but what he said to Benson in the cursing minute or two which followed involved itself into a very full imitation of profanity, inclusive and without embracing.

"And you didn't have wit enough to leave a watchman on the job," he chafed. "My heavens, this thing has got to stop, Benson! And it's going to stop if we have to call out the state militia and picket every mile of this rotten railroad!"

"Do it," said Benson gruffly, "and when it's done you notify me and I'll come back to work." And with that he trumped out and was too angry to remember to close the door.

Lidgerwood turned back to his desk savagely out of humor with Benson and with himself and raging inwardly at the mysterious thieves who were looting the company as boldly as an invading army might. At this the most inauspicious moment possible his eye fell upon the calendar memorandum.

"See Hallock about it," and his finger was on the chief clerk's bell push before he remembered that it was late and that there had been no light in Hallock's room when he had come down the corridor to his own door.

The touch of the push button was only a touch, and there was no answering clink of the bell in the adjoining room. But as if the intention had evoked it a shadow crossed behind the superintendent's chair and came to rest at the end of the roll top desk. Lidgerwood looked up with his eyes alight. It was Hallock who was standing at the desk's end, and he was pointing to the memorandum on the calendar pad.

"You made that note three days ago," he said abruptly. "I saw your train come in and your light go on. That bill of lading was it you wanted to see me about?"

For an instant Lidgerwood failed to understand. Then he saw that in abbreviating he had unconsciously used the familiar sign "B-L," the common abbreviation of "bill of lading."

"Sit down," he rapped out. "That isn't 'bill of lading'; it's 'building and loan'."

Hallock dragged the one vacant chair into the circle illuminated by the shaded desk electric and sat on the edge of it, with his hands on his knees. "Well," he said in the grating voice that was so curiously like Gidley's.

"We can cut out the details"—this from the man who, under other conditions, would have gone diplomatically into the smallest details. "Some years ago you were the treasurer of the Mesa Building and Loan association. When the association went out of business its books showed a cash balance in the treasury. What became of the money?"

Hallock was silent for a time, so long a time that Lidgerwood burst out impatiently. "Why don't you answer me?"

"I was just wondering if it is worth while for you to throw me overboard," said the chief clerk, speaking slowly and quite without heat. "You are peeding friends pretty badly just now."

"If you only knew it, Mr. Lidgerwood," the cool retort, as from an equal in rank, added fresh fuel to the fire.

"I'm not buying friends with concessions to injustice and crooked dealing," Lidgerwood exploded. "You were in the railroad service when the money was paid over to you, and you are in the railroad service now. I want to know where the money went."

"It's none of your business, Mr. Lidgerwood."

"By heavens, I'm making it my business, Hallock! These men who were robbed say that you are an embezzler, a thief. If you are not you've got to clear yourself. If you are you can't stay in the Red Butte service another day; that's all."

Again there was a silence charged with electric possibilities. When Hallock spoke it was still without anger.

"I don't care a hang for your chief clerkship," he said calmly, "but for reasons of my own I am not ready to quit on such short notice. When I am ready you won't have to discharge me. Upon what terms can I stay?"

"I've stated them," said the one who was angry. "Discharge your trust, make good in dollars and cents or show cause why you were caught with an empty cash box."

"You seem to take it for granted that I was the only grafter in the building and loan business," the chief clerk objected. "I wasn't. On the contrary, I was only a necessary cog in the wheel. Somebody had to make the deductions from the payrolls, and—"

"I'm not asking you to make excuses," stormed Lidgerwood. "I'm telling you that you've got to make good! If the money was used legitimately you or some of your fellow officers in the company should be able to show it. If the others left you to hold the bag it is due to yourself, to the men who were sold up and to me that you set yourself straight. Go to Plaster—-he was your president, wasn't he?—and get him to make a statement that I can show to the grievance committee. That will let you out and me too."

Mark of Noble Birth.

In some parts of the east women of high caste wear huge bracelets, the object being to prove their noble birth by making them unable to do work of any kind. Savage races delight in all kinds of weird ornament, but it must be a high price to pay for beauty to wear two large bracelets attached to the ears—for one cannot call them earrings—and another through the cartilage of the nose. But most frequently they wear a mass of hoops on their arms and legs and are fairly content with that.

Sociable Swallows.

Two society-loving swallows have built their nest in a chandelier in the dining-room of Gersdorffsland, a country seat in Denmark. They have five young ones, and do not seem to mind people in the room. During meals they generally sit on the curtain rods and watch the people at the table, but if a dog or a cat enters the room they at once become frightened.

The Meekest Man.

Our notion of the meekest man is one who is afraid to attempt borrowing a part of his salary from his wife. —Achtung Globe.

premiums were held out on the pay-rolls. It smells like a good, old fashioned graft with the lid nailed on."

"My duty is clear," said Lidgerwood. "Of course the Pacific Southwestern company isn't responsible for the side issue schemes of the old Red Butte Western officials. But I want to do strict justice. These men charge the officials of the building and loan company with open dishonesty. There was a balance of several thousand dollars in the treasury when the explosion came, and it disappeared."
